

SRVJWC
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
May 22, 2014
Contact: Mary Parmelee | 201.214.8623

On May 8th, 2014 the Saddle River Valley Junior Women's Club, SRVJWC, hosted a meeting for guest speaker Lawrence Rosen, M.D. of The Whole Child Center of Oradell, N.J. Dr. Rosen is an integrative pediatrician and co-author of Treatment Alternatives for Children, a guide for parents interested in natural solutions for common childhood ailments.

Susan Azarman, Director of Women's Health for the SRVJWC along with Co-Director Jill DeLuise felt it was important to share Dr. Rosen's approach with other moms because of his success rate with his pediatric patients. "I originally met the doctor at my daughter's school when they presented a Q&A parent dialogue led by Lawrence Rosen, MD. After reading just a few pages of his book "Treatment Alternatives for Children" I was immediately captivated by his integrative approach. He takes the best of conventional and holistic medicine and applies it to his practice" said Susan Azarman.

Dr. Rosen leads a team of integrative clinicians providing holistic primary care pediatric services as well as a variety of complementary therapies. His approach is simple yet powerful and parent can begin to implement them immediately. For more information on Dr. Rosen's complementary practice and his book please visit: <http://www.lawrencerosenmd.com>.

The SRVJWC is a non-profit organization whose primary focus is to bring women together by promoting community service and outreach in civic, social and educational endeavors. New members are always welcome, for more information on SRVJWC please visit: <http://www.srvjwc.org> or email contactus@srvjwc.org.

Photo L to R:
Jill DeLuise
Lawrence Rosen, MD
Susan Azarman